

ABOUT ME

Hi! I am Marko Štalmatović! Freelance Web Designer & Developer based in Belgrade, Serbia. I have long experience in wide range of design disciplines and programming. The work I provide is of highest quality and fully responsive. I have built numerous websites from scratch, including the graphics, the front-end and back-end.

SHORT BIOGRAPHY

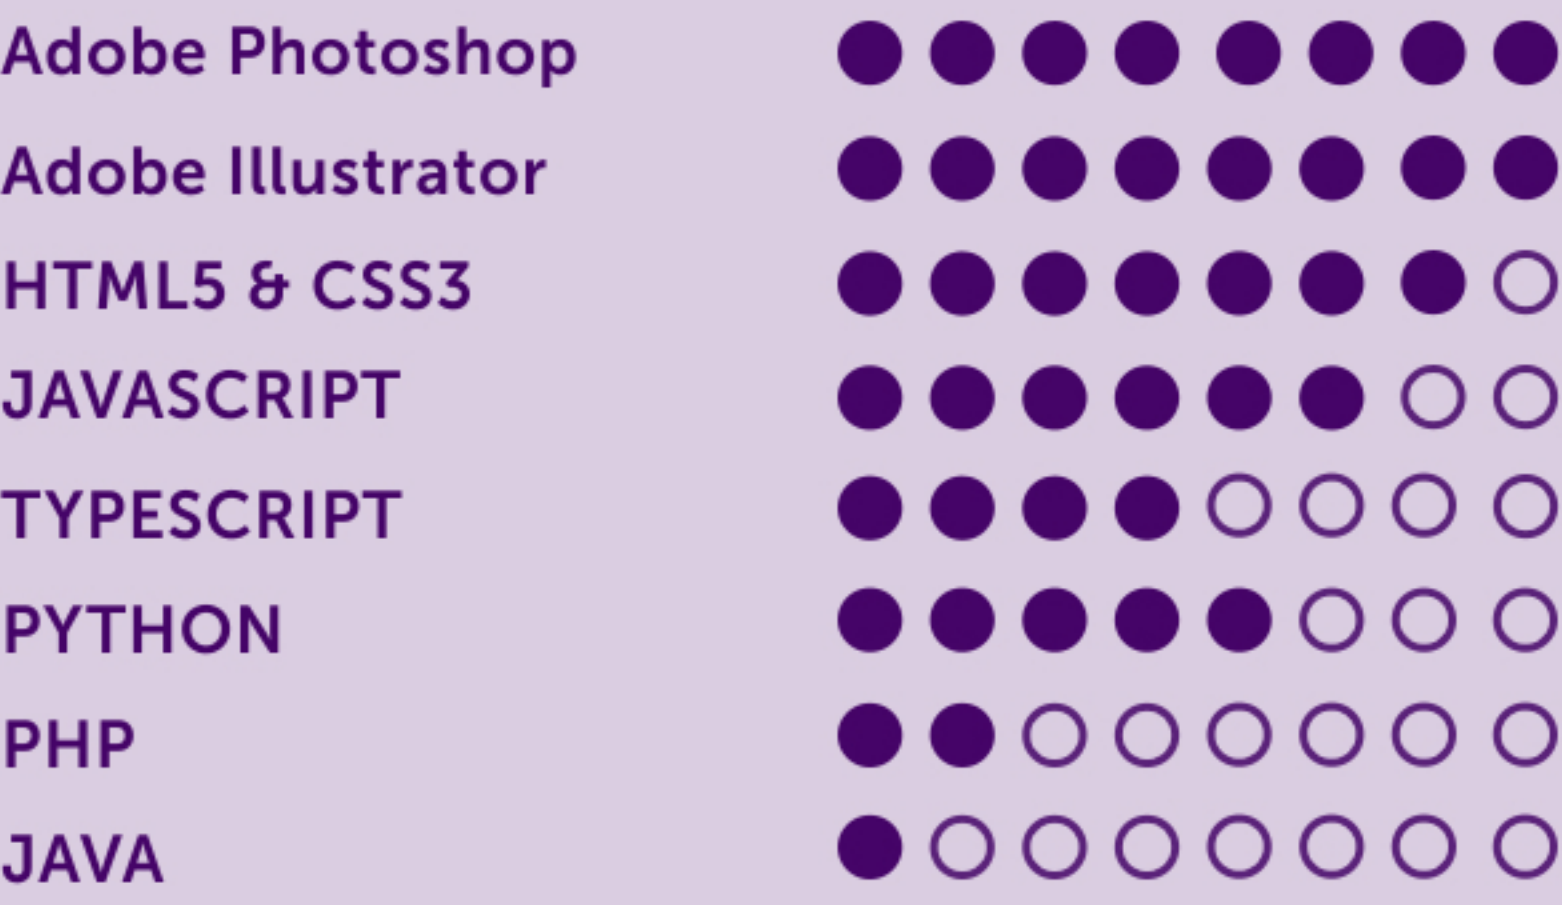

Besides working as a graphic designer in a variety of companies and as freelance, during my studies, I also got interested in web design. Ever since I was a child, I was keen on new technologies, and over time my desire for learning to program grew. Knowing HTML & CSS, as well as Basic Javascript / jQuery, I took a step further. I enrolled Master studies at the Information Technology Chair at Singidunum University. In the meantime, I have been admitted to a course where I have learned a lot about web programming in various programming languages and Drupal CMS. At the moment I am doing PhD studies on Intelligent Systems at the University of Belgrade.

While working on various projects, I've learned how to turn client's idea to a successful and easy-to-use product. Having passion for design and new technologies, I enjoy in every aspect of the making process. In a nutshell, making apps and websites for clients all over the world is my dream job.
